“ I remember growing up with the Moores as a part of our lives. Truthfully I cannot remember a time without them, whether they were close or far. Dave was a unique person in the sense he had a big heart, wicked sense of humor and damn could he cook. I remember as a kid during the summer SO excited to do festivals with him, Wendy, my parents AND his Cajun deliciousness. As I got older I too wanted to make his staple dishes that I grew up with. As most of you know Daves' bread pudding, shrimp creole and crawfish étouffée were family secrets that SO many people wanted to know, that he kept to himself. I on the other hand was BLESSED to not only learn these recipes many years ago, but had the greatest (and meticulous) teacher teach me how to cook them... David himself!! I rememeber texting you when I would make one of your "secret" recipes for friends, to let you know not only was it a major hit but EVERYONE wanted it. I kept those recipes near and dear to my heart since I was a part of an elite group who was privy to know them. I am so glad you wrote down these recipes to share with your full "friends family" because I know how much love each recipe has in it. I love you with my whole heart and as I promised you I will take care of my dad and be there for your family now that you are gone. We may not live in the same state anymore but promises are promises and I could not express how weird life would be with out you in it. Your up there making crawfish étouffée with my mom now, teaching her. Just make sure when driving around in heaven you do not put any in the backseat, since you know how much of a disaster that will be.

Love you always and Moore than you know.

“ David was a friend and classmate from Notre Dame High School Class of 1984, and he was an outstanding athletic trainer an avid sports fan. So I think it would be fitting to quote a late great ESPN Anchor who also lost is life to cancer. Stuart Scoot said, "when you die, it does not mean that you lose to cancer. You beat cancer by how you live, why you live, and in the manner in which you live." By that definition David Joseph Moore not just beat cancer, he kicked cancer's butt! David beat cancer on all counts and in the process taught us all a lesson of love for he truly loved his family and close friends into eternity, I am so proud to have been called his friend! To Wendy, Allison and Nick, I pray that the Holy Spirit brings comfort to your souls during this period of mourning. It is our faith that one day, if we live right, we shall see him again.

Rest in Peace D!

Very well said, Terrence! David did kick cancer's butt!!! He has also left behind lasting impressions of how we should all live our lives; surrounded by people we love, and making the most of the precious time God has given us.

Rest in Peace David

David was an angel on earth. The love he showed Wendy Allison and Nick is unconditional and the true meaning of the way life should be lived instead of all the complaining we do. I hope we can all take a piece of David's act of kindness and learn from it. I know it will forever change my life and the stuff I take for granted like my husband and children. We need to all remember that God has only leant them to us, we never know when he will take them back.

“ I called him my angel, for good reason. He put everyone else first ALWAYS! He never complained about being sick or the pain. These last couple of months we chose to share our death experience instead of hiding it. I wanted to show my kids how loved our Angel was.... And they saw!! Priceless moments when you see your children wash grown men hug and kiss each other and tell each other they love them- because they truly love each other! I'm the lucky one he chose to spend his life with. I only pray I can be half as good as he was. RIP my angel-

“ I have so many great memories of Dave. I have a few of them when cooking was involved (Étouffée and shrimp gumbo on Peggy Street in 2002, at our place when we were stationed in San Antonio back in 2006, at the Taste of Chicago (in their food truck) in 1996 and at Dave and Wendy's last April. But one of my favorite memories was when Nick, who was 4 when I visited them in 2002 I think, wasn't on his best behavior at the dinner table. Dave told him that Santa might take away his next birthday if he didn't shape up (but imagine this being said in Dave's warm, sweet-flowing voice with his charm and in his words). I darn-near fell over trying not to pee myself laughing because he was messing around with Nick but Nick's face was so serious, like he was being scolded, he was so cute! (Imagine really believing that you won't really have another birthday if you didn't do what your daddy told you to!). Bwahahaha. That is how Dave and Wendy raised their kids- with a great sense of humor and tolerance. Nick and Allie went for years thinking that NcDonald's wasn't open on Tuesdays.

Dave was just simply the best. A great guy, loving husband and father. Can not say enough about what a great employee, manger and co-worker he was. He was a perfect manager and I will always have great respect for him. He always thought of others first and was generous with all that he had.

I will miss him.
