“ Shoepick was one of a kind loving wonderful lady. My husband John, and I would go every morning to the Town House before going to work and she always had hot coffee waiting at the table for us. She was a special lady who knew the importance of customer service. Service with a Smile. A Very rare quality in today's society.

Sorry to hear that you have expired. I never got to bring you a mozzarella, spinach chicken burger from Noc Kiev's. The Coronavirus caused the Ellington to be under quarantine. You were so good to my son, Paul when he and Timmey went to the Town House. May you Rest In Peace.

“ My deepest condolences to the family. My mom was friends with Miss Ethel, and back in the 60's I worked with her at the Town House. I was a weekend and summer waitress. She was so kind to me and certainly taught me a whole lot about life in general. May you rest in peace you dear sweet lady!

“ During our very young age and WWII bubble gum was a rarity. Ethel's dad owned a grocery store and when he got of supply of the gum we would walk from St Joseph school to the store near Our Mother of Mercy Church on lunch break to get the gum. We laughed about this every time we met even into our very old age

“ I have a funny story about shoepick. She worked with me very briefly at LaBauve's restaurant in the 80s. One time there was some police and ambulances down the street from our restaurant. She left her post to go and see what it was. Everybody thought I would be upset but I really wasn't, she knew everybody and everything that happened in Rayne and that's what made people want to come and talk to her. It was good for business. I will miss her. She was a lovely woman. Ray Constantin
