“ Sending thoughts and prayers your way. Christi, you are the strongest woman, wife, and mother I've ever met. Blake was such a handsome young man just like his father and the two of them are greatly missed. We love you guys.

“ I am sending prayers and strength your way. I truly enjoy having Jason's smiles in my classroom and I promised never to tell anyone how truly brilliant he was. He was so helpful with the plays and skits and a joy to have around. Thank you for sharing part of him with me and the students. God Bless.

“ Sending prayers to the family and friends. Jason was a true blessing in my life and helped me so much with the plays and in my English III A class. I enjoyed teaching him (he is so smart but I promised him I would not tell anyone) and there were so many days that his smile or his hugs helped me make it through some tough days. I pray you feel his hugs around you now during this time and see his kind eyes and sweet smile with you always. If you need anything please let us know.

“ Christi, I just want you to know that it was a pleasure teaching Jason at Mire Elementary. I'll never forget how the boys would try to confuse me by calling him Blake and he would try to confuse me by putting Blake on his test papers. I don't know how many times I said, "Who's Blake??!!" and he would give me that smirky, little smile. :) As a mother, I wish I knew the best words to say, but I really don't. I know you and Blair will miss him so very much. Think about this.... If he can't be in your arms right now, how comforting it should be to know he is in Jesus'. Prayers are coming y'all way! Have faith!!
