“ I am sorry for loss . The whole Mouton family were such good neighbors to the Faulk family on Third Street in Rayne in the 50's and 60's . Seeing this brings back good memories of that time. One of those memories was that a two or three year old Mouton went missing ,we searched the whole neighborhood ,when he was finally found ,he had been hiding behind a door in the house .

“ Linda and family....no words are adequate enough to express my heartfelt sorrow for your loss. I lost both of my parents last May and June (45 days apart) and the pain of the loss is just as great today as it was at that time. We can never be prepared for the departure of our loved one, no matter what age they are when we lose them...when you love someone, it just "hurts"! So, my prayers are with all of you and you are in my heart. God Bless You! Lori

“ Mary,
I am so very sorry about the loss of your mother. She had a long life and I am sure you will miss her. I forgot until a few minutes ago that I have a 10:30 am appointment so I will not be able to come to the Mass. I will offer my prayers for you and your mom. Love, Pam.

“ To the Mouton family and Laura Sowels:

Laura and I have talked many times about the importance of Grandparents in our lives, especially as teens and young adults. They can be such a source of wisdom, compassion and education that our parents cannot be many times, because they are still dealing with the complexities of building a life.

People that were born in the early twentieth century have lived through a long term economic depression, several wars, and many big natural disasters. They have also witnessed wonderful inventions, medical cures and entertainment technologies. They know that life has went from physically demanding to mentally challenging.

When younger people get excited or frustrated with the problems of their own lives and the world, Grandparents seem to stay so calm because they realize that we will still go on to better years.

They have already lived through worse times and the big picture is that things keep improving in the long run. We see their example and it calms each of us to choose the right paths in life.

Mrs Mouton led such a productive life, raising so many children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. Every one of these individuals have in their own way taken her example and wisdom and contributed great things to our way of life here in America.

She will always be a wonderful memory for as long as you live and will in spirit still be a good influence on your lives. She is in a wonderful place now and reliving memories from from long ago with those who went before.

*God bless her, our sympathies to you all
