Ms. Daigle was loved by many for her warm, welcoming smile and kind heart. She loved reminiscing and sharing her life experiences. She was proud of her Cajun French heritage and enjoyed visiting with family and friends. There was always a sprinkling of French thrown into the conversation. Many cups of coffee were shared with guests as they visited her home.

Ms. Daigle and her husband owned and operated Eda's Cash Grocery for many years where they made lifelong friends. After retiring from the grocery store, they realized they missed working with the public, so they then operated East Park Mart, a convenience store also located in Rayne, LA. She always enjoyed traveling, playing bingo and cards with her friends, playing pokeno with her pokeno group, and watching Wheel of Fortune each day. Those who were honored to receive her gifts of homemade candies or her sweet dough pies looked forward to it every year. The most important thing to her was her family, faith and friends. She will be missed by all, but her legacy will continue for generations to come.
